

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a partition for the inside of a bag, especially for a handbag, said partition comprising a receiving part for at least one flat light source. Furthermore, the partition is transparent at least in the region of the at least one light source, on at least one side.